UNION PRISONERS TO BE SHOT. At the Libby Prison yesterday, by order of Gen. Winder, the Captains among the Yankee prisoners, numbering seventy-four, drew lots for two to be shot in retaliation for the shooting of Capts. Wm. F. Corbin and T. J. McGraw, by Gen. Buruside, at 8andusky, O., on the 15th of May last. The prisoners were assembled in a room at 12 o'clock, by Capt. Turner, commandant of the prison, and after being formed in a hollow square around a table. The position of the rebel army is definitely stated at headquarters to-day. Longstreet's forces are at Shepherdstown; Ewell's at Hagerstown, and Hill's between Hagerstown and Williamsport. Their estimated strength is 50,000 to 60,000, with about one hundred and fifty pieces of artillery.

> [For the Louisville Democrat.] Messrs. Editors: At the approaching August dection the citizens of the First District are desirous of supporting a candidate for the Legislature who is identified with the Wick-liffe Democracy and a supporter of the Democratic ticket. Such a person we believe Robert A. Snyder to be, and if he will consent to make the race he will receive the unqualifled support of the Democracy of the District. We hope the gentleman will interpose no objections, that we may elect him by a large majority.

WORLD'S FAIR, LONDON, 1863 .- The high est premium has been awarded for the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines at the World's Fair, recently held in London, England, with all other sewing machines in competition. This result was not unexpected of course, but is still highly complimentary to American genius, and a triumph more noteworthy considering the public sentiment in England. This marked recognition of this machine not only adds to its prestige, confirming, as it does, the numerous awards here, but should satisfy the public that if any sewing is done Wheeler & Wilson's is the machine to do it.

Up to this hour the riot appears to be increasing. The following is a brief resume of heir operations:

It appears to be a plan of resistance to the their operations:

It appears to be a plan of resistance to the conscription, as all the working men on the different railroads combined together with those of several factories, and marched to the building on Third avenue, where the drafting for the Ninth district had commenced.

At about half past 10 o'clock the crowd rashed in and seized the books and papers using great violence towards the officers and reporters present, except Assistant Deputy Van Derpelt, who was badly beaten—it is thought beyond recovery. Soon after the building was burned, the demons meanwhile storming the upper part, where some half dozon families lived. The soldiers fired into the ruffians when they were sut upon, drived off and pursued about a mile. One of the soldiers was caucht and advantage of the soldiers was caught and actually beaten to death by both men and women. Another was nearly torn to pieces and thrown over ar pectpice, and his body stoned till half buried. Soon arter a squad of police arrived, but were driven off, one of their wamber be-ing tern to pieces and kicked to jelly.

The stores in the vicinity were soon closed by their owners, and the rioters had every-thing their own way. The firemen were not allowed to play on the fire.

The most horrible and beastly outrages have been perpetrated. Some twelve or thirteen policemen have been so brutally treated that their recovery is almost hopeless, and no doubt exists of the death of Superintendent dark, gloomy, blue sky is windy, but a bright blue sky indicates fine weather.

A gray sky in the morning, fine weather. A high dawn, wind. A low dawn, fair weather.

Small inky-looking clouds foretell rain. Light seud clouds driving across heavy masses, show wind and rain; but if alone, may indicate wind only.

High upper clouds, crossing the sun, moon or stars, in a direction different from that of the lower clouds, or the wind then felt below, foretell a change of wind towards their direction.

After fine, clear weather, the first signs in the sky of a coming change are usually light streaks, curls, wisps or mottled patches of white distant clouds, which increase, and are fellowed by a murky vapor that grows into cloudiness. This appearance, more or less oily or watery, as wind or rain will prevail, is an infallible sign.

Usually, the higher and more distant such slouds seem to be, the more gradual, but general, the coming change of weather will

Light, delicate, quiet tints or colors, with soft, undefined forms of clouds, indicate and accompany fine weather; but, unusual or gaudy hues, with hard, definitely outlined cleuds, foretell rain, and probably strong wind.

Misty clouds forming, or hanging on hights show wind and rain coming if they remain, increase, or descend. If they rise or disperse, the weather will improve or become fine. When sea birds fly out early, moderate wind and fair weather may be expected. When they hang about the land, or over it, same-times flying inland, expect a strong wind with stormy weather. As many creatures besides birds are affected by the approach of rain or wind, such indications should not be slighted by any observer who wishes to foresee weath-

There are other signs of a coming change in the weather known less generally than may be desirable, and therefore worth notice; such as when birds of long flight—rooks, swallows or others, hang about home, and fly up and down, or low, rain or wind may be expected. Also when snimals seek sheltered places, in-stead of spreading over the usual ranges, when pigs carry straws to their styes, and when smoke from chimneys does not ascend readily, or straight up during a calm, an unfavorable change is probable.

Dow is an indication of fine weather, so is fog. Neither of these formations occur under an overcast sky, or where there is much wind. Remarkable clearness of atmosphere near the horizon; distant objects, such as hills, un-usually visible or raised by refraction, and what is called a good "hearing day," may be mentioned among signs of wet; if not wind. More than usual twinkling of the stars, in-distinctness or apparent multiplication of the moon's horns, halos, "wind-dogs," and the rainbow, are more or less significant of in-creasing wind, if not rain. creasing wind, if not rain.

PARCHED CORN MBAL .- Among the various ranched Corn Maal.—Among the various uses to which our great American cereal can be put, the "Medical and Surgical Reporter" gives the following: "Any one who has traveled over the western prairies, is undoubtedly familiar with the kind of food named at the head of this article. The mode of preparing it is to pareh the corn, reduce it to meal, and add a due proportion of sugar. Provided with this simple article of diet, the Indians, hunters and trappers of the West will travel hundreds of miles, a very small quantity in bulk, sufficing for many days. It is, withal, exceedingly maletable and is naually mixed in water when palatable, and is usually mixed in water when parations, and is usually inited in water when esten. This would be an excellent addition to the rations of our soldiers, taking the place of both flour and coffice. A small quantity of it will go a great way, and its use would economize money, time, bulk and weight, all considerations of importance—the three last especially so in rand army movements. The pecially so in rapid army movements." The preparation described above forms, under the manse of Pinole, a large share of the rations of the Mexican army, and is much used as an arwhen traveling in that country, it often was our principal food. We have often wondered why it was not introduced into our army for the use of detached expeditions; it is very nutricious and requires no cooking; stirred with a sufficient quantity of water to form a kind of gruel, it satisfies both thirst and hunger [Am. Agriculturist.

ANOTHER RECIPE FOR RHUBARB WINE .- The following is from the American Agriculturist: Rhubarb Wina.—Trim off the leaves and grind and press the stalks in any cider mill. grind and press the stakes in any cider mill. To each gailon of juice add one gallon of water and six pounds of refined sugar, and all the casks, leaving the bungs out. A moderately cool cellar is the best place to keep it. Fill up occasionally either from juice kept on purpose, or with sweetened water, so that impurities which rise to the surface while formantely is going on many horses had a mentation is going on, may be worked off.
When sufficiently formented, which will require from one to two months, bung tightly and let it remain until winter, when it may be racked off into other casks, or bottled. Some persons reflue it before bottling, by putting into each barrel two ounces of isinglass dis solved in a quart of wine.

This wine, when properly made, is in flavor so similar to sherry that few persons can dis-

SHEEF AS FERTILIZERS.—John E. Traver, of Duteness county, N. Y., writes to the American Agriculturist: "I keep a fock of thirty sheep which have had the range of an eight sere lot. The soil of this was thin, as it was situated at some distance from the barn-yard, and had received as manufacture from the server. and had received no manure from the barn-yard, and had received no manure from that source. In the summer of 1858 the dogs got among my sheep and frightened them so they would not go on the back side of the lot, unless it was to feed for a short time, and they lay wholly on one side of the field. I plauted it with corn after it had lain two years. The side of the let where the sheep had rested. The side of the let where the sheep had rested gave a good yield, and the worms did not trouble it throughout the season. Where the sheep did not lay, but only fed, the worms made sad have, and the corn was poor. The oat crop following showed the same difference. On the rye I old not see so much inequality. My opinion is that if we keep more sheep our crops will not be so much infested with worms.

WHAT A FARMER'S BOY SHOULD BE.—Some one, we do not know who, says a farmer's boy should learn how to do the following

1. To dress himself, black his own shoes, ent his brother's hair, wind a watch, sew on a button, make a bed and keep all his clothes in order.

2 To harness a horse, grease a wagon, and drives teem.

6. To write a neat, appropriate, briefly expressed business letter, in a good hand, and fold and subscribe it properly.

7. To plow, sew grain and grass-seed, drive a newing machine, swing a scythe, build a stock and a load of hay.
